

EMOTION IS THE LINK

What quantum physics is suggesting is that there's something we do in our lives that speaks to this blueprint there is a language that awakens specific blueprints and crystallizes them through vibration into what we know is the events of our world they have meaning in our lives so there is a language here our non-physical unseen world of possibility and our physical world of experience what is the link we're now beginning to understand through science.

The ancients told us in their way the link is human emotion, emotion is the link emotion awakens the blueprint and produces the effect that we see in our world we must feel the feelings in our bodies of what we choose to experience in our world feel the feelings in our bodies of what we choose to experience not what we don't want to experience creation apparently doesn't understand the word don't so if you say don't think of a pink elephant creation what have you got I mean you're immediately thinking of the pink elephant doesn't it's all done in the affirmative in the positive what we feel what we become in the unseen realms remember this is the realm where the four forces of nature merge into one potent power this is the realm where emotion speaks to that power so through the power of human emotion coherent heart-based emotions we are speaking the language to these forces here and we're seeing the effects in the world around us the language of their time ancient traditions left this very empowering message to the people of their future and now we're trying to understand the language of our time.

We began with this great mystery the mystery looks like this; something we do in our lives triggers a process in our bodies that interacts with the forces of creation and affects our physical world when it does we call it miracles that language says heart based feeling and emotion changes the chemistry of our bodies scientists know this producing quantum effects that affect our physical world and it's done through the quantum hologram it's the same thing heart-based feeling and emotion changes the chemistry of our bodies producing effects that extend beyond our bodies the effects are not limited to our physical bodies and it's done through the quantum hologram when we get deep into the esoteric traditions even love and hate or love and fear are essentially one and the same force they're one and the same for the purposes of what we're doing here I'm going to suggest through the traditions of the ancients and I'm going to be specific here the ancient Essenes and many indigenous traditions emotion two primary emotions that we're capable of love or hate without something to give our love or hate direction this is where our lives can become very chaotic and very scattered and this is where the experience of human thought becomes very important thought is associated with the upper energy centres the throat centres the communication centre the third eye the pineal centre and the crown chakra the crown centre thought in and of itself has very little power.

I'm going to say this one more time because it's perhaps a little different than what some of the teachings of the esoteric traditions in the past may have suggested.

Thought in and of itself has very little power it is a directional system when we think about something our thought is simply an image perhaps associated with imagination and it is only when we fuel our thought with the power of human emotion when we pump the emotion of love for what we're thinking or hate for what we're thinking into that thought that we empower that thought and when we do so by definition we create what is called a feeling.

Feeling is a power that we are only beginning to understand here in the west it's a power that transcends what we think of in our minds it is the power of human emotion and human feeling that can only come about from a genuine experience of emotion in our hearts rather than the logic of our minds so I'm sharing this story now to begin our program.
